Violent Behaviour Management — Georgia's PRIA-Based Probation Programme for Perpetrators of Gender-Based Violence (Unevaluated)

Gender Equality · Good practice · Georgia

Quality score: 37/100

Evidence strength: Cautionary / limited

Summary

Georgia's probation agency adapted Spain's PRIA model in 2016 into an 18-session, 4–6-month programme for violent probationers; it has run since, but paused during COVID-19 and no recidivism results have been published.

Key dimensions

Dimension	Score
Transferability / replicability	1/3
Impact on gender equality	0/1
Effectiveness	0/1
Efficiency	0/1
Evaluated outcomes	0/1
Sustainability	1/1
Achievement / evidence	0/1
Gender-mainstreaming embedding	1/1
Curator validation	1/1

Evaluated by C-NAPSE

Data sources

C-NAPSE web research — accessed 2026-11-10

National Probation Agency of Georgia (Ministry of Corrections and Probation; now Ministry of Justice system), with UN Women — accessed 2026-11-10

UN Women Georgia: GBV perpetrators rehabilitation programme launched (2016) — accessed 2026-11-10

UN Women Georgia: 'Violent Behaviour Management' programme launched (June 2016) — accessed 2026-11-10

UN Women Georgia: strengthening perpetrator behaviour correction programmes (2021) — accessed 2026-11-10

Council of Europe: standards on perpetrators' programmes available to Georgian professionals — accessed 2026-11-10

Cite this — Evidoria. Violent Behaviour Management — Georgia's PRIA-Based Probation Programme for Perpetrators of Gender-Based Violence (Unevaluated). Persistent ID: 8df89c30-7bd6-409f-8d6f-da52a126c8e8.