

Argentina's Ley Micaela (Law 27499/2019) — Mandatory Gender Training for All Public Servants

Gender Equality · Good practice · Argentina

Quality score: 63/100

Evidence strength: Moderate

Summary

Law 27499 (2019) mandates gender and gender-based-violence training for all Argentine public servants across the three branches of government. By December 2023, over 234,710 state agents had completed the training through 73 certified programmes run by 146 organisations.

Key dimensions

Dimension	Score
Transferability / replicability	2/3
Impact on gender equality	1/1
Effectiveness	0/1
Efficiency	0/1
Evaluated outcomes	1/1
Sustainability	1/1
Achievement / evidence	1/1
Gender-mainstreaming embedding	1/1
Curator validation	0/1

Evaluated by C-NAPSE

Data sources

C-NAPSE web research — accessed 2026-06-23

Ministerio de Mujeres, Géneros y Diversidad de la Nación — accessed 2026-06-23

Argentina.gob.ar — Ley Micaela official page — accessed 2026-06-23

OGP — Federalization of the Micaela Law \(AR0091\) — accessed 2026-06-23

Argentina government — 242,000+ trained by August 2023 — accessed 2026-06-23

OAS MESECVI — Committee of Experts celebrates approval of Micaela Law — accessed 2026-06-23

Cite this — Evidoria. Argentina's Ley Micaela (Law 27499/2019) — Mandatory Gender Training for All Public Servants. Persistent ID: 99021053-6ab8-4efc-b453-2d4433694830.