

Decreasing digital divide among people living in remote disadvantaged areas of Hungary with mobile ICTs

Digital Inclusion · Good practice · Hungary · Regional

Quality score: 32/100

Evidence strength: Cautionary / limited

Summary

Aim: Through a training programme, adults who live in remote disadvantaged areas of Hungary who are working in agriculture or who are physically challenged will make a step forward in digital literacy and will widen their digital competencies therefore increasing their possibilities

Key dimensions

Dimension	Score
Innovation level	3/5
Sustainability (ongoing)	1/1
Evaluation evidence	0/1
Demonstrated reach	0/1
Documented learning	0/1

Evaluated by MEDICI consortium

Data sources

MEDICI / Digital Inclusion Atlas — accessed 2026-06-14

Practice website — accessed 2026-06-14

Cite this — Evidoria. Decreasing digital divide among people living in remote disadvantaged areas of Hungary with mobile ICTs. Persistent ID: 675929be-837b-4d47-9c79-cc6b3458bd4f.