

Family Support Centre & SAFENET — Solomon Islands' National Referral Network for Survivors of Gender-Based Violence

Gender Equality · Good practice · Solomon Islands

Quality score: 63/100

Evidence strength: Moderate

Summary

Solomon Islands' Family Support Centre (1995) anchors the national SAFENET referral network. Survivors served rose from 1,939 (2019) to 3,165 (2021) as SAFENET expanded to outer provinces — still a fraction of a prevalence near two in three women.

Key dimensions

Dimension	Score
Transferability / replicability	2/3
Impact on gender equality	1/1
Effectiveness	0/1
Efficiency	0/1
Evaluated outcomes	1/1
Sustainability	1/1
Achievement / evidence	1/1
Gender-mainstreaming embedding	1/1
Curator validation	0/1

Evaluated by C-NAPSE

Data sources

C-NAPSE web research — accessed 2026-09-23

Family Support Centre \(Solomon Islands\) / SAFENET, Ministry of Women, Youth, Children and Family Affairs — accessed 2026-09-23

UN Women Asia-Pacific — Delivering rapid, coordinated services to survivors of violence in the Solomon Islands — accessed 2026-09-23

IWDA — Family Support Centre — accessed 2026-09-23

PMC — Hospital Visits Due to Domestic Violence 1994–2011 in the Solomon Islands — accessed 2026-09-23

Cite this — Evidoria. Family Support Centre & SAFENET — Solomon Islands' National Referral Network for Survivors of Gender-Based Violence. Persistent ID: de3f1e2e-1b38-494b-9edf-6b0706987933.