

Fiji Women's Crisis Centre — Pacific-Wide Community Mobilisation and Male Advocacy Against Gender-Based Violence

Gender Equality · Good practice · Fiji

Quality score: 89/100

Evidence strength: Strong

Summary

Since 1984, Fiji's oldest women's crisis service has paired direct survivor support with nationwide community education and 'male advocacy' training for police, military and chiefs, plus a regional programme that has trained over 1,000 Pacific practitioners since 1995.

Key dimensions

Dimension	Score
Transferability / replicability	3/3
Impact on gender equality	1/1
Effectiveness	1/1
Efficiency	0/1
Evaluated outcomes	1/1
Sustainability	1/1
Achievement / evidence	1/1
Gender-mainstreaming embedding	1/1
Curator validation	1/1

Evaluated by C-NAPSE

Data sources

C-NAPSE web research — accessed 2026-09-23

Fiji Women's Crisis Centre — accessed 2026-09-23

Fiji Women's Crisis Centre — Official site — accessed 2026-09-23

Devpolicy Blog \(ANU\) — Three Decades of Australian Support — accessed 2026-09-23

DFAT — Independent Evaluation Report — accessed 2026-09-23

Cite this — Evidoria. Fiji Women's Crisis Centre — Pacific-Wide Community Mobilisation and Male Advocacy Against Gender-Based Violence. Persistent ID: b70bca33-79c6-4ab6-9ee4-8040e261e70f.