Rethinking Power — Beyond Borders' SASA! and Power to Girls Community Mobilisation in La Vallée, Haiti (Quasi-Experimental Evaluation)

Gender Equality · Good practice · Haiti

Quality score: 74/100

Evidence strength: Strong

Summary

Haitian NGO Beyond Borders adapted SASA! plus its Power to Girls curriculum in La Vallée commune. Past-year physical/sexual partner violence fell from 23% to 12%, against 23% to 17% in comparison commune Marigot, despite gang violence, COVID and political crisis.

Key dimensions

Dimension	Score
Transferability / replicability	2/3
Impact on gender equality	1/1
Effectiveness	1/1
Efficiency	0/1
Evaluated outcomes	1/1
Sustainability	0/1
Achievement / evidence	1/1
Gender-mainstreaming embedding	1/1
Curator validation	1/1

Evaluated by C-NAPSE

Data sources

C-NAPSE web research — accessed 2026-11-14

Beyond Borders (evaluation: Global Women's Institute, George Washington University) — accessed 2026-11-14

GWI — Rethinking Power evaluation report (2022) — accessed 2026-11-14

Murphy et al. (2025), Journal of Family Violence — accessed 2026-11-14

ISRCTN12311597 trial registration — accessed 2026-11-14

Cite this — Evidoria. Rethinking Power — Beyond Borders' SASA! and Power to Girls Community Mobilisation in La Vallée, Haiti (Quasi-Experimental Evaluation). Persistent ID: 5285c4d4-3952-4f10-a5d3-a893da2aebb7.