

SZJ za decu i po■etnike — Co-Designing Serbia's First Sign-Language Learning App with the Deaf Community

Digital Inclusion · Good practice · Serbia

Quality score: 52/100

Evidence strength: Moderate

Summary

UNICEF, two national Deaf associations and IT firm Vega IT co-created "SZJ za decu i po■etnike", Serbia's first mobile app teaching Serbian Sign Language to children and beginners via signed videos and gamified quizzes; it passed 1,000 downloads and won a national digital award.

Key dimensions

Dimension	Score
Documented learning	0/1
Innovation level	3/5
Sustainability (ongoing)	1/1
Evaluation evidence	0/1
Demonstrated reach	1/1

Evaluated by C-NAPSE

Data sources

C-NAPSE web research — accessed 2026-09-26

UNICEF Serbia; Belgrade Deaf Organization; Deaf and Hard-of-Hearing Association of Serbia; Vega IT — accessed 2026-09-26

Vega IT case study — accessed 2026-09-26

Google Play listing — accessed 2026-09-26

Cite this — Evidoria. SZJ za decu i po■etnike — Co-Designing Serbia's First Sign-Language Learning App with the Deaf Community. Persistent ID: d35eb7a5-b6d8-4162-b24b-58cabcaebaa3.