

Weto in Mour — Marshall Islands Gender-Based Violence Support Service

Gender Equality · Good practice · Marshall Islands

Quality score: 52/100

Evidence strength: Moderate

Summary

WUTMI, a national women's NGO in the Marshall Islands, opened the country's first dedicated gender-based-violence support centre in Majuro in 2016, replicated it in Ebeye in 2021, and later extended into police training, though intake remains a fraction of estimated need.

Key dimensions

Dimension	Score
Transferability / replicability	2/3
Impact on gender equality	0/1
Effectiveness	0/1
Efficiency	0/1
Evaluated outcomes	0/1
Sustainability	1/1
Achievement / evidence	1/1
Gender-mainstreaming embedding	1/1
Curator validation	1/1

Evaluated by C-NAPSE

Data sources

C-NAPSE web research — accessed 2026-07-11

Women United Together Marshall Islands \(WUTMI\) — accessed 2026-07-11

Marshall Islands Journal — Weto in Mour helps women — accessed 2026-07-11

Marshall Islands Journal — WUTMI opens Ebeye program — accessed 2026-07-11

Pacific Women Lead — WUTMI opens Weto in Mour, 'A Place of Life' — accessed 2026-07-11

Spotlight Initiative — Breaking the bias: Marshall Islands police officers — accessed 2026-07-11

Pacific Data Hub — WUTMI ending violence awareness for young people — accessed 2026-07-11

Cite this — Evidoria. Weto in Mour — Marshall Islands Gender-Based Violence Support Service. Persistent ID: fd11e854-8f80-4770-9562-3fc98aaac975.